How to pitch the salon kit

The angle

Don’t sell advertising. Sell a small, useful service for their clients that costs the salon nothing and looks like it belongs in their space. High-end owners care about how their salon looks and how their clients feel, so lead with that, not with PairMundo.

What’s in it for the salon:

1. Zero effort and zero cost. You bring the stand and the cards, refill them, and remove them whenever they ask.
2. It matches their interior. Show the mockup first; it looks like their own price card, not a flyer.
3. Something helpful for their clients. Many of their clients are busy parents, and childcare is a constant topic in the chair.
4. Optional thank-you: a referral reward (see below).

Before you go

- Pick 10 to 15 salons in Östermalm, Vasastan, Djursholm, Danderyd, Lidingö, Saltsjöbaden and Bromma. Independent salons are better than chains, because the owner is often on the floor and can say yes on the spot.
- Visit on a Tuesday to Thursday between 10:00 and 11:30, or just after lunch. Avoid Fridays, Saturdays and evenings.
- Bring one finished stand with a card in it, about 20 take-away cards, and the mockup on your phone. Seeing the real thing on their counter does most of the selling.
- Ask for the owner (“ägaren” or “salongschefen”). If they’re not in, leave one take-away card with your name and number written on the back and ask when they’ll be in.

In person: 30 seconds

Swedish

> Hej! Jag heter Badji och driver PairMundo, en ny svensk tjänst som hjälper familjer att hitta en au pair på ett tryggt sätt. Många av era kunder är just småbarnsföräldrar, så jag undrar om ni skulle vilja ha det här lilla kortet vid kassan? Det kostar ingenting, jag fyller på och hämtar det när ni vill. Får jag visa hur det ser ut?

Then put the stand on the counter and stop talking.

English (many Stockholm salon owners are happy in English)

> Hi, I’m Badji, I run PairMundo, a new Swedish service that helps families find an au pair safely. A lot of your clients are parents with young children, so I wondered if you’d be happy to have this small card by the till? It’s free, I refill it, and I’ll take it away whenever you like. Can I show you how it looks?

If they hesitate

They say	You say
“We don’t put up ads.”	“That’s why it looks like this: no poster, just one small card by the till. Try it for a month and I’ll take it away if it doesn’t fit.”
“I need to ask the owner.”	“Of course. Can I leave this one with you so they can see it? I’ll stop by on Thursday.”
“What’s in it for us?”	“A useful tip for your clients, at no cost. And if you’d like, the salon can get a thank-you for every family that joins through your card.” (Only say this once you’ve decided on the referral reward below.)
“Is it trustworthy?”	“Profiles are verified, families and au pairs review each other, and the au pair rules for Sweden are checked for you. You’re welcome to try the app yourself first.”

The referral reward: your decision

The app already has an ambassador programme. Each ambassador gets a link (`pairmundo.com/?ref=CODE`), and the current rewards are $15 when a family buys a pass and $40 for a placement. You could make each salon an ambassador and print its own QR code with its referral link. Then the salon earns a little from every family it sends, and you can show them the numbers.

My suggestion: don’t open with money, because it can make a premium salon feel like a billboard. Offer it as a thank-you once they’ve said yes, or to a salon that hesitates. To pay a salon, it invoices PairMundo and you pay by bank transfer in kronor from Mercury (Swish isn’t available from a US account).

After they say yes

1. Put the stand where clients pay, and the take-away cards next to it.
2. Send a short thank-you email or SMS that day (draft in the thread).
3. Visit every 3 to 4 weeks to refill cards and swap in a clean one.
4. After 6 to 8 weeks, check Admin → Waitlist → By flyer or ad and keep only the salons that bring people in. A separate QR code per salon makes this possible.

A follow-up email to leave behind or send after a visit

See the draft posted in the thread, in Swedish.

Other venues: what to change in the pitch

The visit and the card stay the same. Only the opening line changes, so it says why the venue’s customers fit.

Venue	Swedish opening line	Tip
Babysim and children's activities	"Era föräldrar sitter ofta och väntar medan barnen simmar, och många funderar på barnomsorg. Skulle ni vilja ha det här lilla kortet i receptionen?"	Visit just after a class ends, when reception is calm.
Pregnancy and new-parent studios	"Många av era kunder planerar hur det ska bli när föräldraledigheten tar slut. Det här kortet visar ett tryggt sätt att hitta en au pair."	Put the card where people sign in or pay.
Children's hairdressers, kids' shops, pram shops	"Era kunder är småbarnsföräldrar, så jag tror att det här kan vara ett bra tips för dem."	Ask to put the take-away cards in the shopping bag too.
Cafés and padel clubs	"Många barnfamiljer från området kommer hit. Skulle ni vilja ha ett litet kort vid kassan?"	Keep it to the counter; skip table cards.

Private preschools (by email)

Email the head of the preschool (förskolechef or rektor) and ask to be mentioned once in the parent newsletter. Offer a short text and the QR image. Don't put up material without asking.

Relocation firms and HR (meetings, often in English)

This is a partnership, not a card. Ask to be included in the welcome information that new families get when they move to Stockholm. Lead with what the consultant gains: a trusted answer to "how do we find childcare?", one of the first questions new families ask. Badji can take these meetings in English, with the ambassador setting them up.
